Employee what to bring list

You are going to live in a remote location in Bristol Bay. Temperatures can be as low as the 30's to as high as the 80's. It could rain every single day. It could snow. The wind can blow over 60 miles per hour. The sun will shine for 20 hours on some days. You will only be able to escape these elements via the protective equipment you bring with you from home. We expect you to be adequately prepared for anything the elements can throw at you.

You are going to live in a cabin or WeatherPort-style tent. You will live in a relatively small space which can be tough to heat or to cool and there are no private bathrooms. We are depending on you to be self-sufficient. Please plan on supplying everything you need or want to have on your own.

You may send items to yourself through the mail and bring the rest with you on the airplane. The baggage weight allowance is limited to 50 pounds per person on initial flights. Your clothing and gear should fit into one or two small soft-sided bags and a smaller carry on. Baggage in excess of what is described above may have to be flown to Grosvenor on a later flight, space available. Storage is also available at the Katmailand office in Anchorage for items not needed at the lodge.

It is important for you to realize that you have been hired to work. We are not hiring you to go fishing, hike or take part in a paid summer vacation. However, you will have free time and we want to enjoy it! Fishing rods, reels, kayaks, canoes, are available for you to use. Terminal fishing tackle is not provided, but a limited stock is available for purchase on location. If you would like to bring something to help you better enjoy your environment, please feel to reach out anytime and we can let you know if it is feasible or not.

We have put together this list for your convenience. Obviously, this list contains a lot of optional equipment. Remember you are responsible for bringing the tools, equipment and clothing you need to perform your job to our satisfaction. Do not underestimate that you will be a very long way from home, working a challenging job for long time. The little comforts you have in camp can go a long way in helping you make it through the season.

Please contact Jason anytime if you have questions.

Fly tying
Guides are encouraged to be creative and tie flies often to fit fishing demands, however we do not supply equipment (vise, scissors, bobbin, etc...) and materials. Certain materials can be supplied by lodge on case by case basis. The Lodge will maintain a healthy selection of flies to supply guided trips.

Obviously 99% of this information is common sense and is only listed for your convenience. Keep a few things in mind in deciding what to bring or leave at home.

- You will be a long way from home for a rather long period of time.
- There is very little “personal space” and successfully creating a “personal world” can be very important.
- If you think you might want it... bring it. If you are in question of whether to pack it or not, call us. We have done this for a long time. We know what works or not from experience. We want you to be happy.
- The company will not pay baggage fees for your transportation. Be smart about what you pack to bring as luggage vs. mailing the stuff to yourself. Contact Jason for more info.
- You will be able to do your own laundry in evenings throughout the week. We suggest you bring ample clothing items to make it through a week.
